DR. DAVID KING SMITH

DAVID KING SMITH, M.D., was born, educated and lived all his life in Toronto. After passing through the public schools he attended the old Jarvis Street Grammar School and from there passed to the Medical Faculty of Toronto University, from which he graduated with credit on the completion of the usual four years' course. While at the Medical School the doctor paid special attention to dermatology, and after graduation took an additional course in that subject, on which he is now a recognized authority, as well as being an expert in practice.

Dr. Smith's interest in horses began very early in life. He was taught to ride almost in his infancy, and though at the present time only in the early thirties, he has been an enthusiastic follower of the hounds for twenty years past, and few members of the Hunt Club have carried off so many prizes in the Club competitions. The Doctor has owned many fine hunters during the past ten or twelve years, but among them all his favorite was Athol, with whom he won the Walker Cup in the Hunt Club Steeplechase. The Doctor, in fact, is one of the members of the Club who have contributed largely to the improvement of hunters in Ontario in recent years. He has spared neither time nor labor in his efforts to promote this object, and those who look back a decade or so and compare the mounts at the meets of to-day with those of twelve or fifteen years ago, will appreciate the debt of gratitude which horsemen owe to him and those who worked with him to develop a better class of animals. Dr. Smith is also a member of the Ontario Jockey Club, and has done his share towards making that organization the great success it has been.

As might be expected, Dr. Smith is interested in military matters, having been for the past eight years connected with the 48th Highlanders, in which regiment he holds the rank of Captain. He is a member also of the Toronto Club, of the Masonic Order, and of the Zeta Psi Fraternity, in all of which he is highly esteemed both for his abilities and his social qualities.

MISS KATHERINE L. WILKS

ALTHOUGH not altogether a rarity, it is unusual to see a lady of such high social position as Miss Katherine L. Wilks, of Cricklewood Park, Galt, interested in the breeding and racing of the light harness horse, or for that matter, of any other kind of horse.

To be sure, Miss Wilks, who has an ancestry of worth and wealth, and the entree to the most exclusive society of America, being a member of the great Astor family of New York, adorns her position with the most gracious and charming hospitality. She yet prefers the attractions of her Canadian estate to the all-absorbing pursuits of New York's "four hundred."

There are, indeed, feminine owners of race-horses in both Great Britain and the United States, but Miss Wilks is exceptional in that she possesses a stock-farm of over a thousand acres on which she breeds almost exclusively light harness horses.

Within the last few years she has spent an enormous amount of money in further-

TORONTO HUNT POLO CLUB

THE interesting game of polo was established in the Toronto Hunt in the autumn of 1901, and it soon assumed a solid footing. The game was then played on a field in the vicinity of the Hunt Club, the undulations of which at times made the contests intensely interesting. Early in 1902 additional ground was purchased by the Hunt Club and a proper field laid out. The trees were removed and the ground carefully levelled. Much difficulty was experienced owing to the sandy nature of the soil, but this was by constant improvement eventually overcome. The field is 150 yards in width and 300 yards in length, and as it is situated near the lake, on Scarborough Heights, and surrounded by a belt of trees, it forms one of the most picturesque polo fields on this continent. Early in September, 1902, the Club played its first match with the Montreal Polo Club, this being the first polo match in Eastern Canada. The Toronto team consisted of Mr. Ewart Osborne, Major (now Lieut.-Colonel) V. A. S. Williams, R.C.D.; Capt. J. H. Elmsley, R.C.D.; and Dr. Campbell Meyers, with Mr. Alfred Beardmore as substitute. The return match was played in the latter part of the same month on the new field at the Hunt Club, with the same team which had played in Montreal, except that owing to an accident, Dr. Meyers was obliged to retire early from the game and his place was taken by Mr. Beardmore. In both matches the Toronto team was victorious. Since then the development of the sport in Toronto has been marked, many victories resting upon the banners of the Club.

KENRIC R. MARSHALL

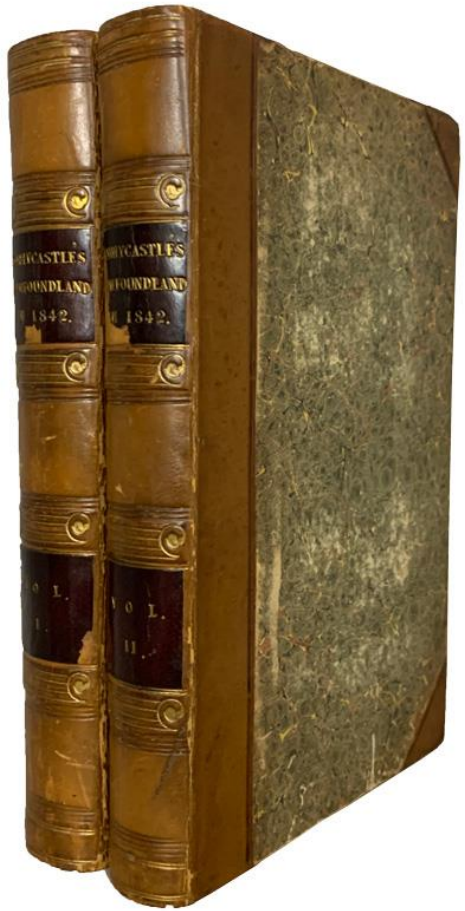

KENRIC R. MARSHALL, the subject of this sketch, is the eldest son of Noel Marshall, a prominent Canadian, and was born in Toronto, on October the thirteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty, was educated at private schools and afterwards at Upper Canada College, where he took part in the usual college athletics.

Mr. Marshall has travelled extensively abroad, and has had the advantage of seeing sport under many different conditions. He commenced following the hounds at the Toronto Hunt when only twelve years of age, and has hunted regularly ever since.

His connection with racing and the riding of races began in eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, when he piloted Mr. W. F. Maclean's horse, Angus, to victory. Since that time Mr. Marshall has owned and ridden several well-known race-horses, among others, Billy Ray, Interference, Promise, Apteryx, Charles Elwood, Dramatist, L. W. and Golden Way.

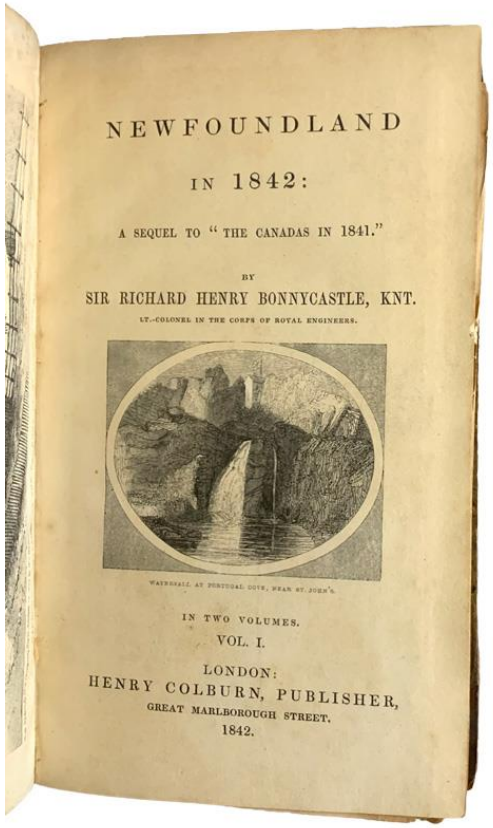

In commercial life, he is at present Vice-President of the Standard Fuel Company, and assists his father in other business interests. Increasing weight and the oblige-

5. BONNYCASTLE, Sir Richard Henry

Newfoundland in 1842: A sequel to "The Canadas in 1841". Two Volumes. London. Henry Colburn, Publisher. 1842. 19 cm, first edition, x,367 & iv,[1],351pp., plus large folding map and three plates, bound in contemporary three-quarter calf and marbled boards, blind ruled boards and spine, labels lightly chipped, corners a bit rubbed, light foxing to plates, but generally quite clean internally, very good 1200.00

Richard Henry Bonnycastle (1791-1847) was a British army officer in the Royal Engineers who was assigned to Upper Canada in 1826. He contributed significantly to both infrastructure and educational projects in the colony, and wrote several books on the colony as well. He likewise helped to quell the Canadian Rebellion of 1838. This work focuses on his time in Newfoundland, where he served as commanding engineer.

9. [DUFFERIN, Lady] ORME, James Lawrence

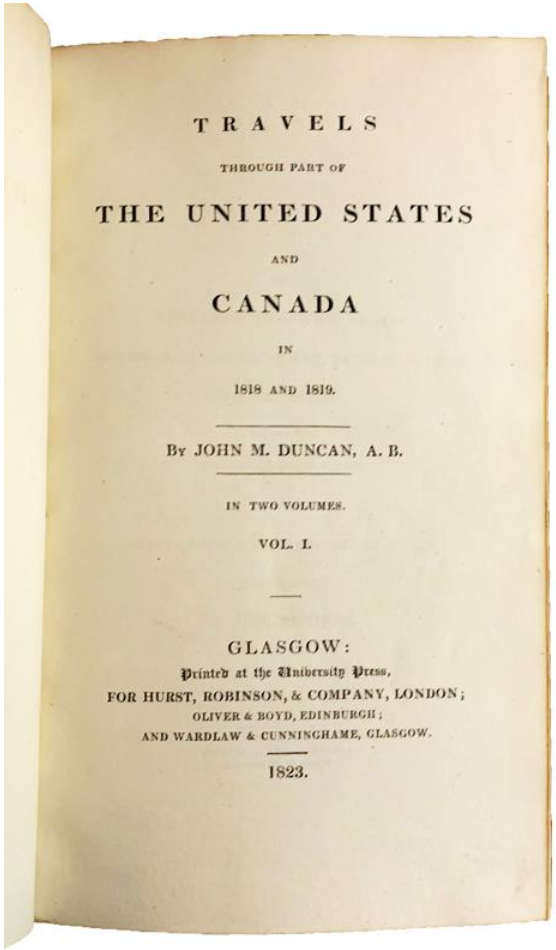

Countess of Dufferin Quadrilles. Composed and respectively Dedicated to her Excellency the Countess of Dufferin. Ottawa. J.L. Orme & Son. 1873. Folio. 35.5x 27cm, 7p., pianoforte score, illustrated wraps, advertisement on rear cover, some indentations along spine for entry into binder, light soiling, contemporary signature on the front wrap, very good 100.00

The attractive cover illustration is a portrait of Lady Dufferin drawn around 1873 at about age 30. The music for five quadrilles is included, arranged for the piano. The composer James Lawrence Orme (d.1893) was the founder in 1861 of the music business, J.L. Orme and Son, Ottawa. The rear cover of the sheet music is a detailed advertisement for the Company. Interestingly the business still exists as an Ottawa furniture store.

Commemorating the Successful laying of the Atlantic Telegraph Cable

26. [NEWFOUNDLAND] BEST, W.R . (drawn by) Lithographed by W. Spreat.

A View of the Town and Harbour of St. John's, Newfoundland. Taken in Commemoration of the successful laying of the Atlantic Cable shewing the Position of the Several Vessels after the return from Bay Bulls Arm, the Newfoundland Terminus. - In the accompanying plate the large vessel on the left hand is the United States Steamship Niagara (A) - the centre vessel, H.M. Steam Sloop, Gorgan (B) - and the Brig on the right further in shore, H.M. Brig of War Atalanta. (C) - Published by F.R. Page, by special request. Drawn from Photographs, Lithographed and Printed by W. Spreat. Exeter. [1860]. plate size: 55x 88.5cm, (21.5"x 35"), lithography, good clear strike 2500.00

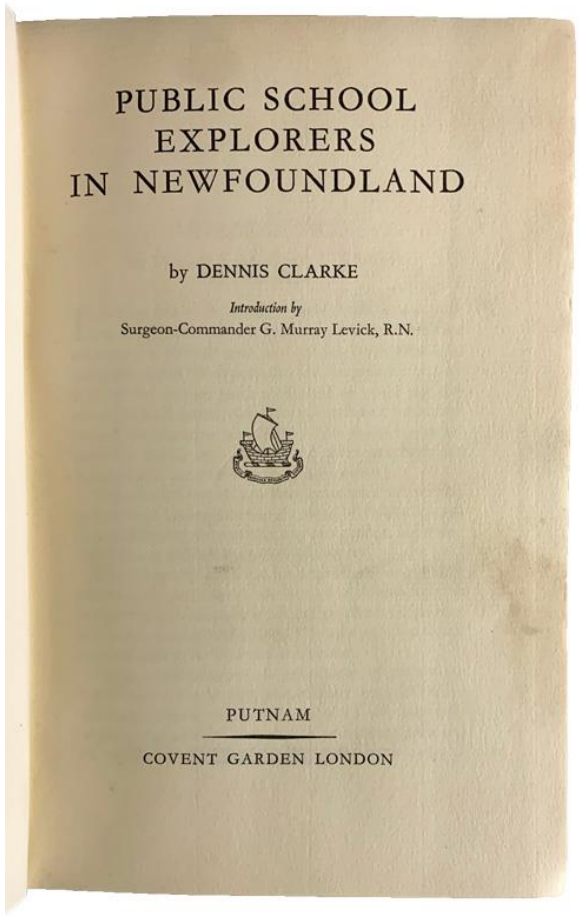

De Volpi. Newfoundland, p79. “The City of St. John’s presents a very picturesque appearance, being built on the side of a hill with a gradual ascent of about three hundred and fifty feet, overlooking the beautiful harbour, which has the appearance of having passed the narrow entrance. Large hills rise on every side, upon which the fishermen’s huts are scattered here and there, taking from the natural wilderness of the scene. We were hospitably received by the authorities and citizens of St. John’s who are very anxious to extend their present limited commercial intercourse with us and regard the Transatlantic Telegraphic enterprise as a powerful means of bringing about such a result” Harper Monthly, November 1858.

Condition: The window mat was originally laid down on the margin leaving residue; there is a triangular stain on the left side; two faint columnar stains in the sky (probably from original wood backing boards); there is a quarter inch diameter hole on the upper left side; the text window paper containing the titles, is toned.

O'Dea. 776. As an Officer of the 15th Foot Regiment, Dashwood left Cork for St. John, N.B. where he was stationed from 1862 until 1868. He was an enthusiastic sportsman who spent his leaves hunting; in 1868 he made an expedition to Newfoundland to shoot caribou. The present title combines information on game hunting equipment, and on methods of hunting with passing comments on the country and a well-told account of his hunting experiences. The main title is the Millicite word for the stick on which the kettle is suspended over the camp fire. Story p210. Rhodenizer p65.

game. The rifle barrel, which is on top, may be made to any calibre to suit the fancy of the owner, from 50 down. The action is strong and perfect. The shot-barrel is a 20-bore cylinder, shoots shot well, and does good execution with a patched round ball at seventy-five to one hundred yards. This would be the ideal gun with jacketed bullet for rifle and smokeless powder. A repeater is not necessary except in war. As each hunter is allowed to kill but five bull and three doe caribou, he should shoot for fine specimens. On small game there is no restriction. As lead is heavy, it is well to take only what ordnance stores are necessary. Forty rounds of rifle cartridges are plenty—and, if a shot-barrel is used, 50 assorted sizes of small shot is quite sufficient. Mr. Kepler carred his Daily 3-barrel gun—the one he has been using for the last fifteen years; shot-barrel 12-bore; rifle, 45–70 Govt. Mr. J. W. Davis, "The Kid" owned no gun, and used the author's Hall gun, 20-bore shot, rifle 40–82. The writer used a 40–65 Winchester with a Malcolm telescope sight.

Workshops open; general prosperity; wages increased; full time for workingmen; full pay for labourers on railroads; agriculture yielding magnificent results; trade with the Mother Country increased; trade with the United States greatly decreased!

And yet intelligent electors are asked to reverse a policy that has spread contentment throughout the Dominion!

Immigration—"Reform" vs. Conservative.

The magnificent result of the financial policy of Sir John Macdonald's Government has borne fruit in another direction. Immigration having greatly increased, and the expense of promoting such greatly reduced. Let every elector examine the annexed statement as presented to Parliament and judge for himself. The number of immigrants who arrived during the last six years, and who were reported by the Agents of the Department as having stated their intention to settle in Canada, was as follows:—

First Parliament, Third Session. } LAWS OF THE PROVINCE OF UPPER CANADA. 34th Geo. 3. C. 12. A. D. 1794.

AN ACT

For Regulating the manner of Licencing Public Houses, and for the more easy Convicting of Persons selling Spirituous Liquors without Licence.

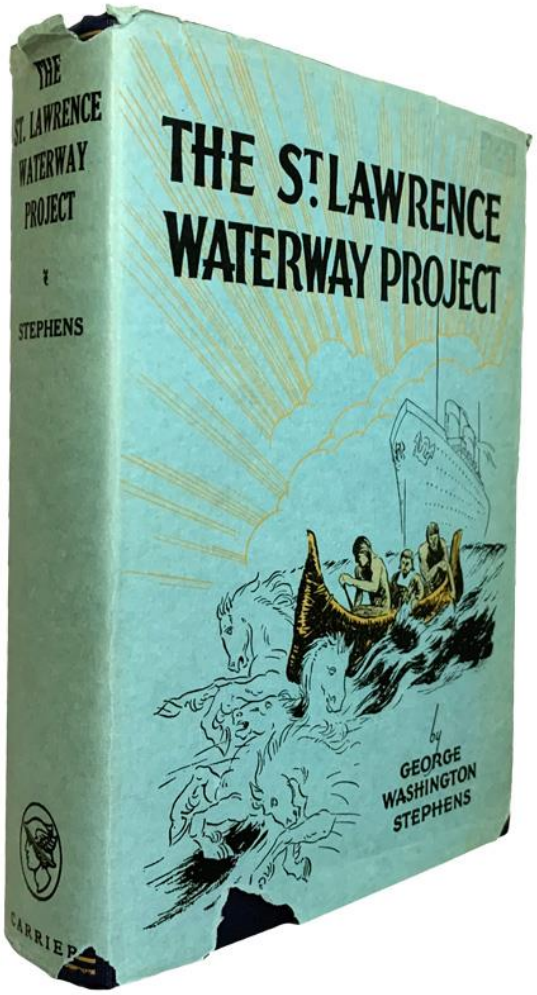

WHEREAS, the provisions contained in a certain Ordinance of the late Province of Quebec, passed in the twenty-eighth year of his Majesty's Reign, intituled, "An Act or Ordinance for the better security of the Revenue arising on the retail of Wine, Brandy, Rum, or Spirituous Liquors," have been found inconvenient; and whereas it is expedient to make other and more easy regulations respecting the granting of Licences to Houses of Public Entertainment; Be it enacted by the King's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper-Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, intituled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of his Majesty's Reign, intituled, "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec, in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province," and by the authority of the same, That the said Act or Ordinance shall be and the same is hereby repealed. Preamble. Recital of an ordinance passed 28 Geo. 3. The same repealed.

II. And be it further Enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That from and after the twentieth day of March next, no Licence shall be granted to any person to keep an Inn or Public House for the purpose of vending Wines, Brandy, Rum, or other Spirituous Liquors; unless he shall first have obtained a Certificate of his being a proper person to keep an Inn or Public House, from the Magistrates of the Division wherein he resides, or is about to reside, to be granted to him as herein after specified, and all Licences which shall be hereafter granted to the contrary hereof shall be null and void. Certificates to be obtained by persons, previous to their being licenced.

III. And be it further Enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That for the said purpose, it shall and may be lawful for the Magistrates acting in each and every Division of the several Districts of this Province, to limit the number of Inns and Public Houses in their several Divisions, and to appoint a day of public meeting in each Division in either of the two last weeks in the month of March in every year, at a convenient place within their several Divisions, by a Warrant under their hands and seals, or under the hands and seals of any two of them, at least ten days before such meeting, directed to the High Constable or other Peace Officer, requiring him to give notice in the most public manner of such intended meeting, and then and there to hear and receive applications from all such persons as desire to take out Licences for opening Inns or Public Houses within their said several Divisions, and the said Magistrates shall, upon hearing and receiving any application from any person praying to have a Licence granted to him, enquire into the life, character and behaviour of the person so applying, and if it shall appear to the greater part of the Justices then and there assembled, that it is expedient to increase the number of Inns or Public Houses, and that the party applying is a sober, honest and diligent man, and a good subject of our Lord the King, they shall then and there grant a Certificate accordingly, under the hands and seals of any two of them, which The number of inns may be limited by the magistrates. Meeting of magistrates, annually in March, in order to determine upon applications for licences. A certificate from the magistrates to affirmed, shall serve as a warrant to obtain a licence.

dacht war. Der angerichtete baare Schaden ward auf 100,000 Pf. Sterl. angeschlagen, und übrigens waren 1500 Menschen in dem rauhen Winterwind auf Newfoundland (im Februar) ohne Obdach. Das Elend dieser unglücklichen ward noch dadurch grausam erhöht, daß der diebische Pöbel ihnen ihr den Flammen entrissenes Eigenthum unter den Händen wegstahl. — Es giebt um St. Johns keine einzige Ortschaft, die nackend entflohenen waren von der in Eis und Schnee starrenden Wildniß umgeben. Die Häuser waren unregelmäßig, doch enge zusammengebaut, sämmtlich von Holz, nur die Rauchfänge von Backstein. — Glücklicherweise wurden die Speicher und Magazine gerettet, deren Zerstörung den unvermeidlichen Hungertod von 12,000 Menschen herbeigeführt hätte; auch kam nur — was kaum glaublich scheint — ein einziger Mensch in den Flammen um.

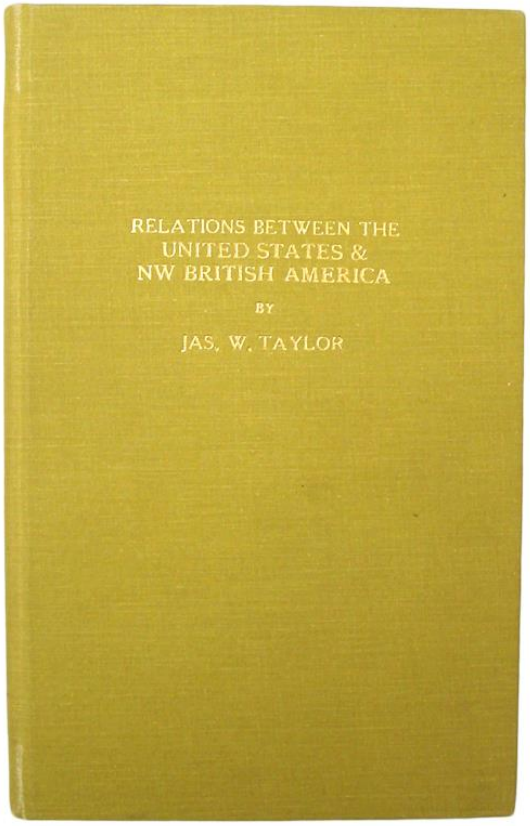

Dieses schreckliche Unglück war bloß ein Vorzeichen noch schwereren Elends. — Die Noth, die fast alle Volksklassen der handelnden Welt in Folge der plötzlichen, gewaltsamen Wiederherstellung friedlichen Verhältnisse empfinden, lastete vorzüglich schwer auf Newfoundland's Bewohner. Verwöhnt durch langjährigen Besitz, die einzigen Versorger jedes Marktes in Europa, in Westindien und Südamerika zu sein, sahen nun mit einem Schlage die Kaufleute sich des ungeheuren Gewinnes, der aus der Theilnahme an dem Welthandel floß, beraubt, und sich auf ihren ursprünglichen, örtlichen Kleinhandel beschränkt, d. h. auf die Herbeischaffung von Lebensmitteln aus dem Mutterlande, die dort für sie und für die Volksmasse nur zu hohen Preisen zu haben waren. In den alten Zeiten hatten die Kaufleute den Fischfang durch eigene Dienstleute betreiben lassen, und beide die geringe Einwohnerzahl einer Küste aufgemacht, wo kein Korn gedeiht. Bei der starken Zunahme des Fischfanges, bildete sich eine zahlreichanwachsende dritte Klasse, sogenannte Hülfsbootsführer (boys - boat - keepers), die mit vielen Leuten den Fischfang für die Kaufleute, und bald in so fern für eigene Rechnung trieben, als sie ihren Fang den Kaufleuten verkauften. Alle blieben in Newfoundland wohnhaft, und bald beschäftigten sich die Kaufleute, die ebenfalls im Winter einen Agenten und mehrere Hausdiener zurückließen, gar nicht mehr unmittelbar mit dem Fischfange, sondern bloß mit merkantilischem Gewerbe, und überließen jenen ganz den sogenannten Pflanzern (planters). Jährlich strömte, besonders aus Irland, eine Menge armer Menschen herbei, um den Bootsführern als Knechte zu dienen, und so wuchs die Bevölkerung, deren ganzes Heil von dem Flor des Fischfangs und dem überallverbreiteten Absatze der Fische abhieng. Für ihren Lebensunterhalt mußten die Pflanzer sorgen, und da diese nun ihre Fische nicht mehr in solcher Menge an die Kaufleute absetzen konnten, so gerieth die ganze, noch dazu rohe und an einen gewissen Grad des Wohllebens (Branntwein und Fleisch) gewöhnte Volksmenge auf der unwirthbaren Insel in gränzenlose Verlegenheit, wovon der Bewohner anderer Gegenden sich kaum eine Vorstellung bilden kann.

RELATIONS BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND NORTH-WEST BRITISH AMERICA.

LETTER

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

IN ANSWER TO

A resolution of the House of 20th May last on the subject of relations with Northwest British America, "particularly the central districts of the Red River of the North and the Saskatchewan."

JULY 11, 1862.—Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, June 20, 1862.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a resolution adopted by the House of Representatives on the 20th day of May, 1862, in the following words:

"Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he hereby is, requested to communicate to this House any information in the possession of his department which he may judge to be in a form suitable for the consideration of the House of Representatives upon the relations between the United States and Northwest British America, particularly the central districts of the Red River of the North and the Saskatchewan."

In compliance with the spirit and terms of this resolution, I have caused to be prepared an abstract of the reports of James W. Taylor, esq., special agent of the Treasury Department, and of other papers on file relating to the subject; which abstract, together with the papers referred to, I have the honor to transmit herewith.

With great respect, yours, &c.,

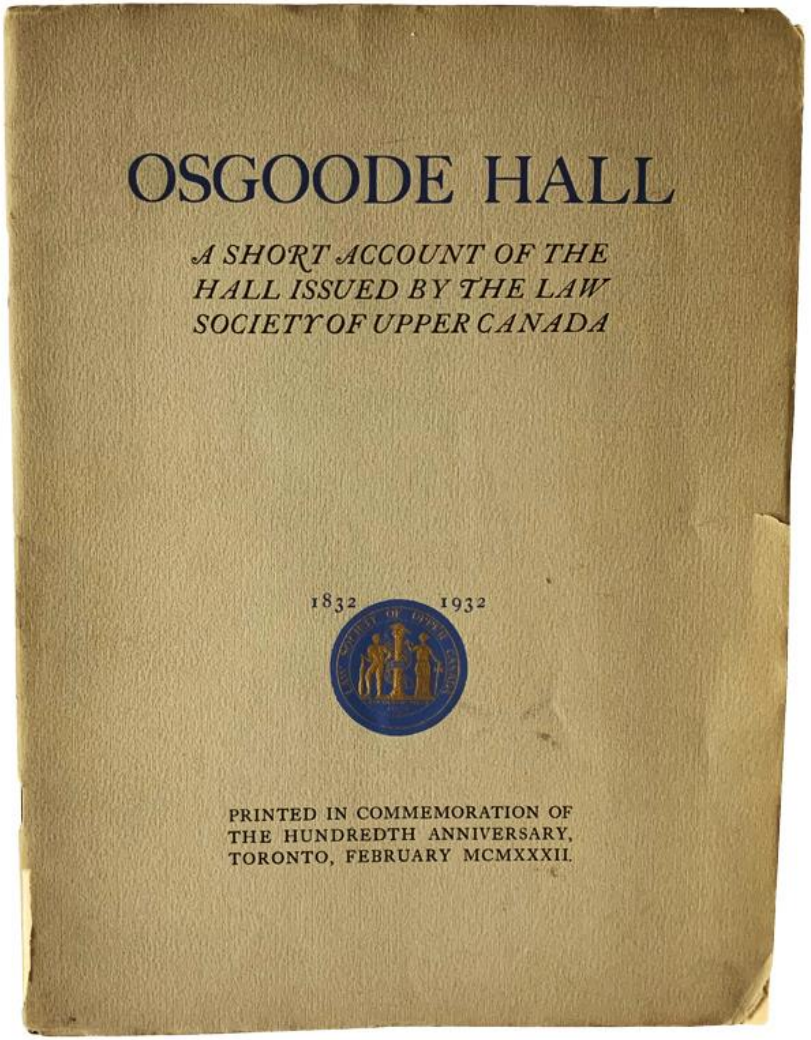

S. P. CHASE.

HON. GALUSHA A. GROW,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Peel 233. "Abstract of the reports of James W. Taylor". Howes T56; Wagner-Camp 383b]. In a previous work Taylor "referred to the inevitability of a railway line from Lake Superior to Puget Sound. The line would cross the extensive and unexplored "Saskatchewan plain," an area of extraordinary fertility which "we are not at liberty to doom to sterility and solitude." Such sentiment became the dominant theme of Taylor's career in the United States and Canada. He worked to bring the northwestern territories of British North America into the American union and stated in 1865 that if the Canadas and Britain were not prepared to develop the area, they should surrender it to the American people "who would not decline the opportunity to discharge the responsibility." In 1862 he provided a more detailed study in which he outlined the mutual value of the treaty and the potential market that existed to the northwest. "... He urged that no unnecessary restrictions be imposed on existing trade. The commercial ties already in place, added to the dissatisfaction of the inhabitants of the Red River settlement with the rule of the HBC, would lead to a popular movement for the colony's entry into the United States. ..." The three sisters, Agnes, Elizabeth and Catherine Strickland had literary careers, but Catherine, the youngest, was first into print. In 1826, Canada was not her horizon, except as an exotic setting for this improving volume - 'lessons of mental firmness, piety and industry.' But in 1832 she did emigrate to Canada, where she played significant role in the development of a Canadian pioneer literature. 'Many of the scenes and events contained in [The Young Emigrants], are communicated to the writer by the member of a very amiable family, who emigrated to America in 1821' (Preface).

Thomas Pichon (1700-1783), traitor and author, was born at Vire, Calvados, France, on September 20, 1700. He became a lawyer and then entered the service of the French King. In 1751 he came to Cape Breton as secretary to the governor; and in 1755 his treason in providing the English with military information resulted in the capture by the English of Fort Beausejour. He went in 1756 to live in England and there he died in 1783. He was the anonymous author of Letters et memoirs pour servir à l' histoire naturelle, civile, et politique de Cap Breton. Author's Presentation Copy, Major General Knollys [Lt-Gen. William Thomas Knollys], Lt. Governor of Guernsey, With the kind regards of an old schoolfellow, the Author. Guernsey, Jan'y 1855. With a correction in pencil by the author. The gilt armorial crest motto: Forte Scutum Sallis Ducum. Likely Knollys coat or arms. TPL 924. Not in Lande. Sabin 8152. Gagnon I-3589. A valuable source for the beginning of the War of 1812. In 1812, Major-General Brock was president and administrator of Upper Canada. In the early months of the war, he was the heart and soul of the defence of Upper Canada. With brilliant audacity, he captured Detroit on August 15; and on October 13 his troops defeated the American invaders at Queenston Heights on the Niagara frontier. During this engagement he was mortally wounded and died the same day. (Wallace). Brock's Detroit force was only 1450 men, including 600 Indigenous People led by Tecumseh.

Smith 1319. Before the War of 1812, state sovereignty was foremost in the nation's political activity.

Succession was "the club" used by every minority in important questions to gain leverage. The war relieved this pressure and unity was achieved. Slavery soon occupied the central place in nation considerations and state sovereignty was again used as a means to an end. State sovereignty was put down as a heresy by the Civil War.

Page 452 - An Essay to an Epitaph on the truly great and justly lamented Major General Wolfe, who fell victoriously before Quebec, Sept 12, 1759. Edmund Burke and the creation of The Annual Register The Annual Register was created in 1758 by the publishers James and Robert Dodsley. On 24 April 1758 the Dodsley brothers signed a contract with Edmund Burke (1729–97) to write and edit the material for The Annual Register, which was conceived as an annual publication which would review the history, politics and literature of the day. Born in Ireland, Burke had trained as a lawyer before abandoning this field and turning to writing. He was an up-and-coming member of the intelligentsia and had already written several notable works, published by Dodsley. According to his contract with Dodsley, Burke was paid £100 per annum as editor of The Annual Register. In its original form, The Annual Register comprised a long historical essay on the “History of the Present War” (the Seven Years' War 1756–63), a Chronology, which gave an account of interesting and noteworthy events in Britain over the previous year, and a collection of “State Papers”, a miscellany of primary source material which included official documents, speeches, letters and accounts. In his preface to the 1758 volume Burke noted the difficulties he had faced in writing the history section of the book. Taking the “broken and unconnected materials” and creating from them “one connected narrative” had been, he commented, “a work of more labour than may at first appear”. Nevertheless, his perseverance and skill as an historian meant that by the time of its publication the first volume of The Annual Register contained a unique, contemporaneous account of the war, analyzing its origins and development with a perspective not readily available at the time in newspapers or magazines. As a result, the book sold widely, with the first volume going through five editions in its first 10 years. Given the conventions of the day, within which journalism was seen as a disreputable profession for a gentleman, Burke was publicly reticent about his connection with The Annual Register. However, his biographers are in agreement that Burke wrote and edited the book single-handedly until 1765, when he entered Parliament. From this time Thomas English was closely involved in writing the book and is regarded by some authorities as having taken over the editorship from Burke in that year. Scholars are divided on the question of Burke's association with the book thereafter, although many suggest that he continued to contribute to the history section and that he played a significant role in overseeing The Annual Register's compilation until the 1790s, even though much of the editorial work by this stage was being done by others.

Thomas Gray was born in London and educated at Eton and Cambridge. He wrote poetry, essays and letters, but spent most of his life as a classics scholar and professor at Cambridge. His best-known poem, Elegy Written in a Country Church Yard (1750) has been required reading for generations of English literature students, its most famous line being "The paths of glory lead but to the gr ave ". It is said that when James Wolfe was preparing for the assault on Quebec, he had the small book in his pocket and read the poem to his troops, commenting: " Gentlemen, 1 wo uld rather have written those lines than take Quebec tomorrow. " Wolfe's own copy of the 1784 edition, given to him before he left on the Quebec expedition by his fiancée, Kathleen Lowther and annotated by him, is in the Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library of the University of Toronto. It was acquired by the Library in 1988 as its seven-millionth volume. The Littledale family, descendants of the Pudsey family, lived at Bolton Hall, Lancs. for several generations; Beatrice Littledale (1859-1930) was the daughter of Henry Anthony Littledale (1810-1859) and Mary Elizabeth Armytage (1822-1897).

The Report of the General Officers, Appointed by His Majesty's Warrant of the First of November 1757, to inquire into the causes of the Failure of the late Expedition to the Coasts of France. London. Printed for A. Millar. 1758. 8's., 20x 13cm, 116p., disbound, publisher's light red stain on the edges, clean and sound, very good to fine 275.00

When there was a threat of England 's being invaded by France in 1756 during the Seven Years' War, Sir John Mordaunt was entrusted with the command of an expedition against Rochefort: the naval portion was under the command of Admiral Sir Edward Hawke. Among others under Mordaunt was young James Wolfe, as quartermaster general. Because of delays, bad weather and indecisiveness, it was decided not to run the risk of an attack and the expedition, which had cost over a million pounds sterling, returned home. A court of inquiry was ordered, of which this is the report, and a subsequent court-martial found Mordaunt not guilty.

The Artist was at the Battle. The Battle of Quebec changed the course of history for America and indeed the World View forever.

This engraving was issued in June, 1760 issue of The London Magazine, to accompany a three page story entitled "Account of the glorious Raising of the Siege of Quebeck". The engraving is represented on the title page as ". a fine VIEW of the Taking of Quebeck by the English Forces commanded by General Wolfe. Beautifully engraved on COPPER". The engraving may be found in the bound volume of The London Magazine for June 1760 (Volume 29), as Plate 12, facing page 280. This image is based upon sketches done by the aide-de-camp to General Wolfe, Sir Hervey Henry Smyth, who was at the battle. This is the second published version of this engraving, reworked from its first appearance in Rider's "A New History of England" (1760). The image was reprinted in the 1760s by John Bowles and Son, London, and was a popular historical print. A third revision was published by Laurie and Whittle in 1797. A detailed view of this major battle of the French & Indian War, a pivotal event in the conflict between Britain and France over the fate of New France, and the later creation of Canada. Brightly coloured and attractive.
