1. ABERDEEN, Lady

The Canadian Journal of Lady Aberdeen, 1893 - 1898. Edited with Introduction by John T. Saywell. Champlain Society, No.38. Toronto. The Champlain Society. 1960. 24cm, lxxxiv,517p., with 2 portrait illustrations, limited to 550 copies, this being #142, original crested red cloth, t.e.g., a fine copy 100.00

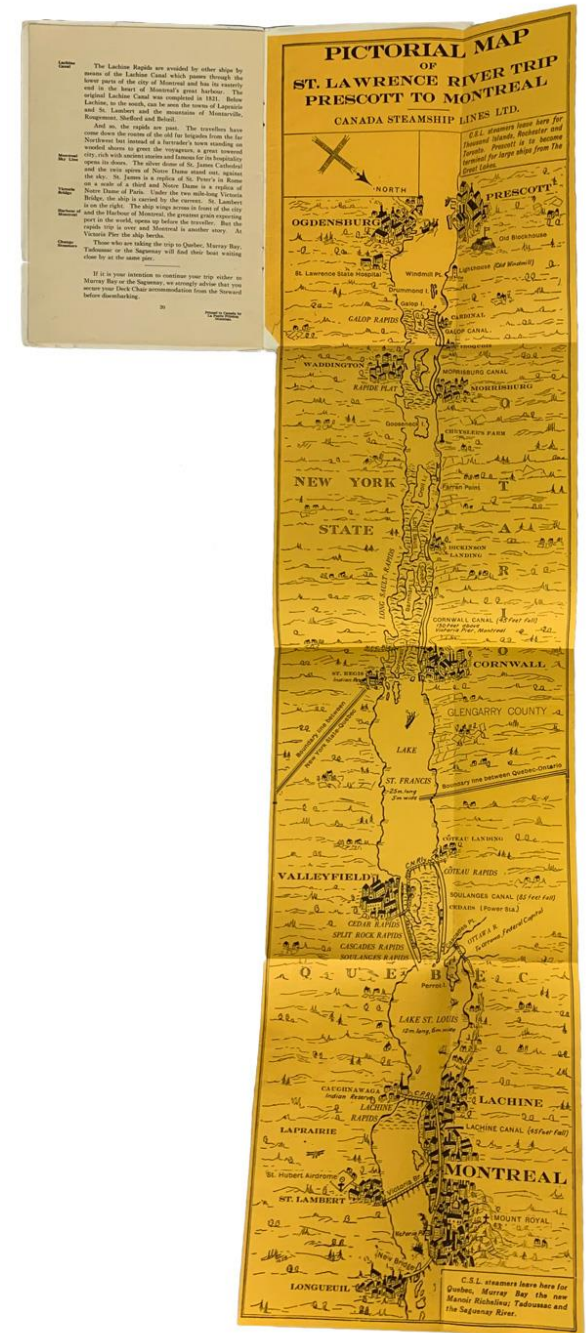

In 1893 Lord Aberdeen became Governor General of Canada and he and Lady Aberdeen traveled extensively in Canada. Her journal is an important source of insight into the problems and times in the country during the 1890's. The appendix contains a biographical dictionary of principal persons and lists the members of the household.

Far more important, however, was her work with women's organizations. A staunch Presbyterian and Gladstonian Liberal, a woman of great poise and boundless energy, she was an aristocrat-democrat with a strong social conscience. She believed that women represented an enormous, unused capacity in Canada, and that they would be a civilizing force in an untamed country. She was instrumental in forming the Canadian branch of the National Council of Women. Despite fierce opposition from the medical establishment, she created the Victorian Order of Nurses. The social family compact in Ottawa, Montréal and Toronto opposed and ridiculed her projects. Her attempts to use Rideau Hall to cool the racial and religious passions of the 1890s and to break down social barriers did not endear her to the local establishment. -John Saywell "EncycCan"

T.P.L. 2424. Lande 2310. Waterston p69.

Bartlett was an accomplished artist of the English landscape school of his day. He met the taste of his time by combining topographical sketches with a romantic mood. The two volumes include many remarkably dramatic sketches: a storm sweeping over the timber rafts on Lake St. Peter; the awesome rapids on approach to the village of Cedars; or a distant view of the lake beneath Owl's Head Mountain in the Eastern Townships. He was equally adept in creating the mood of vast tranquillity in a popularized Turne esque manner. Tremendous landscapes, often in a setting sun, met this taste, as when he drew Lily Lake at Saint John, or a scene on the St. Lawrence near Montreal. From the historical point of view his work is both interesting and valuable... There is an endless charm to seeing Ottawa (then Bytown) as nothing more than Col. By's Canal with a few houses on the hill, or the Montreal water front with its sailing ships, or the view from Mount Royal, showing the broad farmlands between the mountain and the city.

21. CARVER, Jonathan

Travels through the Interior Parts of North America, in the Years 1766, 1767, and 1768. London. Printed for the Author by William Richardson. Sold by J. Dodsley. 1779. 20.5cm, second edition, xvi,(17)-543p., two engraved folding maps, five engraved plates, bound in contemporary treed calf, expertly restored, crimson label with gilt titles, gilt stamped decorations on the spine, new endpapers, sporadic foxing and some offsetting from the plates, a very good copy of the rarest of the London editions. 4000.00

Howes C215; Lande 108; Sabin 11184; JCB 2538; TPL 415; COX 11. This edition contains the two leaves of "Address to the Public" and a plate of the Tobacco plant, neither found in the first edition. "The second edition is by far the rarest of the three London editions" (Stevens, Rare Americana, 1927) . After serving in five campaigns against the French in Canada, and narrowly escaping massacre while commanding a company at Fort William Henry, Jonathan Carver determined to explore beyond the Mississippi, and to find an overland route to the Pacific Ocean. Starting from Boston, in June 1766, he travelled 1300 miles to the most remote British post, and surveyed the bays and rivers of Lake Superior. Then, with supplies for trade with the Indians, he struck north-west of the Mississippi area, further than any explorer had been except Hennepin in 1680 and later proceeded west to the sources of the St. Pierre, or Minnesota, River, living among the Indians and learning their language. He returned to Boston in October 1768, having visited 12 Indian nations and travelled some seven thousand miles. Carver's work is particularly rich in Indian lore and the methods of Indian warfare are described in detail. The book is also of value as a record of early travels in Minnesota and French Canada, and contains one of the earliest descriptions of the regions. Carver left Boston for Fort Michilimakinac, via Lake Superior.

Remarks on the Letter Address'd To Two Great Men. In a Letter to the Author of that Piece. London. Printed for R. And J. Dodsley. [1760]. 20.2cm, 64p., some toning to the last few leaves, very good to fine. Lande 190. T.P.L. 315. JCB (1)III:1264.

This letter concerns the war in Canada and Nova Scotia and the French threat on the Ohio. It refers to the capture of Quebec and the death of Wolfe, and urges that the British Government in making peace with France demand the cession of the whole of Canada. (Lande). An appeal to William Pitt and the Duke of Newcastle that the process of making peace with France must include France's relinquishing all of Canada, Guadeloupe, and Senegal. The issue is important for having elicited Franklin's noteworthy the Interest of Great Britain Considered with Regard to Her Colonies.

the approbation of Dr. Benjamin Franklin, and likewise with that of Mr. George Grenville, as I was informed by the late Mr. Thomas Whately".

43. [MICHAUX, [Francois-Andre]

Travels to the Westward of the Allegany Mountains, in the states of the Ohio, Kentucky, and Tennessee, in the year 1802. Accounts relative to the present state of agriculture, and the natural production of those districts; together with particulars of the commercial relations which subsist between these States, and those to the eastward of the mountains, and of Lower Louisiana. Translated from the French. London. Printed for Richard Phillips. 1805. Bound with the synopsis of : The Narrative of the Sufferings of Capt. David Woodward, and Four Seamen. London. 1804. 21cm, iv(5)-96,32ppl., large folding map (some light foxing at the edge), nicely rebound in full brown cloth with leather label, very good to fine 1200.00

Howes M579; Sabin 48706 (doesn't call for map); Thomson, "Biblio of Ohio" 821; Monaghan 1066; Clark11: 108. This travel narrative by the Frenchman who later make his name with his classic "American Silva". "The zest with which Michaux describes some of the wonders of the West in this brief and discursive journal is as pleasant as his intelligent discussion of economical facts, and puritan domesticity in the East. He gave his countrymen a correct and impressive idea of the products and promise of the great West, but more specifically of Ohio and Kentucky" (Thomson). There were three editions in 1805; this one was translated and condensed and appeared in vol.1 of Richard Phillips massive work, "Analyses of New Voyages and Travels" published in London in the early part of the 19th century.

48. [OTTAWA View]. HUNTER, William S.

View of Locks. Entrance of Rideau Canal - Ottawa City Canada. [From: Hunter's Ottawa Scenery]. Ottawa. Published by William S. Hunter.

1855. 25.5x 33.5cm, sepia tone lithograph, by J.H. Buffords, Litho. Boston, very good to fine

500.00

One of the best views in this Ottawa series. Buffords fame came mainly as the printer of the Currier Ives prints.

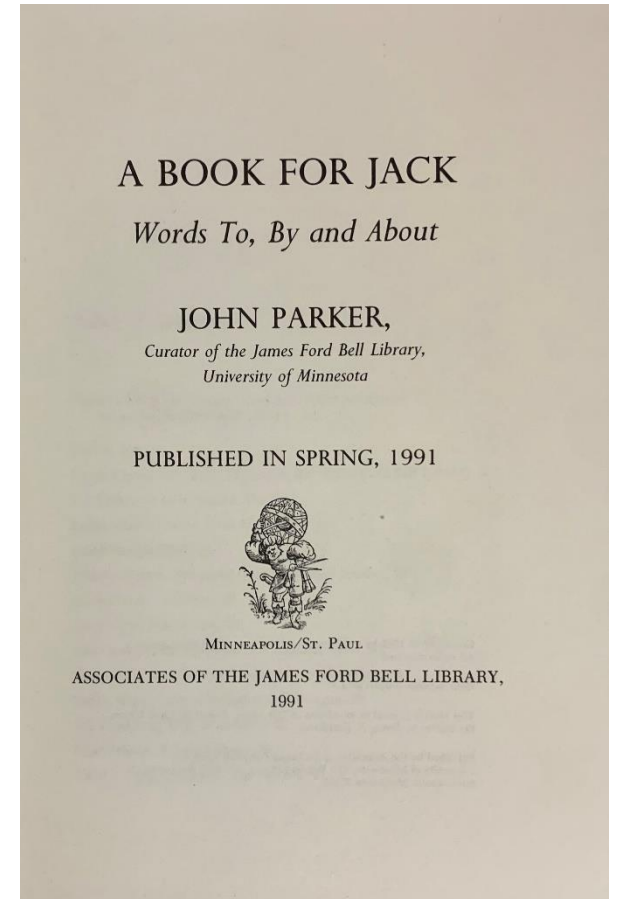

Homer, Winslow (1836-1910). "Probably the first book to include lithographs drawn by Winslow Homer, who was apprenticed to Bufford's of Boston at the relatively late age of eighteen, for a period of two years. The present work includes the apprentice's first substantial published lithograph (the third plate, View of the Locks, Entrance of Rideau Canal) which is initialed by Homer, and the large title vignette and five other plates that are attributable to him on grounds of style". Tatham suggests that "Interests seeking Ottawa's selection as the nation's Capitol may have been behind it or The Ottawa and Prescott Railway, which linked the town to Montreal, might have funded it in an attempt to encourage tourism....". - Tatham. Winslow Homer and the Illustrated Book, 1992.

T.P.L. 2600. The appendix contains the text of the charter of King's College 1827 and amendment I 1837, list of officers, 1828-43, and notes. Though chartered in 1827, the College failed to materialize for a time partly on account of the local political situation. Its own building was started in 1842, and the College opened in 1843, housed temporarily in the Legislative building. In his inaugural address, June 8, 1843, the president, Bishop Strachan, set forth the history of fifty years' effort to establish this College, a state-supported institution with Church of England administration. In 1849-50 King's College was completely secularized and placed under Government control as the University of Toronto.
